FORMS OF INSURANCE

W. B. KIRK EXPLAINS BENEFITS OF ENDOWMENT INSURANCE

Having shown in a previous article the superiority of legal reserve insurance over assessment, an elucidation of the different forms of policy should be of interest to all who want to be informed on this great subject.

I have explained at some length the principle of term-insurance, showing how it is a guaranteed rate for a certain period—usually five or ten years—with an increased rate for each succeeding period if renewable.

Many companies, however, issue only a non-renewal term policy, convertible into a life or endowment form without re-examination at any time during the term, the new policy to take the rate of the attained age or to be dated back to the age at entry and receive credit for the term premiums already paid.

The term policy has its place in tiding over a temporary need for protection because of heavy indebtedness or hazardous undertakings, and until recently, was used largely by corporations to protect them against the death of the responsible and valuable head or heads of the business. The latter, however, are coming more and more to see the value of the endowment policy to cover this need; because, although its cost is greater, it builds up a sinking fund which may be a most valuable asset in time of stress or financial difficulty.

For family protection, too, the term policy is usually a poor form because the insured is lulled into fancied security by having insurance at a low cost from which he is apt to be rudely awakened in later years when he realizes that his rate has largely increased and he has built up no reserve for use when the need arises. And of course, no man will continue to pay on a term policy if he lives to be very old, no matter how badly he may need the insurance because the rate would be prohibitive.

Although the term policy carries a small reserve the "Ordinary Life" policy is the cheapest form of real insurance with a rate guaranteed for life, and is advocated and sold by some companies as being the best in most cases, because of that fact. Many times, doubtless, the need of spreading every dollar over as much protection as possible, is paramount, especially in middle or older life, but a younger man is seldom justified in not taking a higher form. Considering the two-fold object of insurance viz.: the protection of dependents and the building up of an estate for old age, the few extra dollars which are put into a limited pay or long-endowment policy, bring big returns. Very few men want to pay insurance premiums beyond 60 or 65 and they will not do so, consequently a policy which matures or is paid up by that time, is a very wise provision.

The 20-payment life policy has been a very popular one but, largely because of the way it has been sold, the insured makes a "settlement" on the policy the 20th year, usually for cash, the policy is surrendered, and the insurance ceases at an age when insurance is still badly needed. Life policies may be paid up in 15 or 10 years, but at the younger ages are not attractive because the reserve grows so slowly.

This brings us to the Endowment form, against which there exists more or less prejudice among some people, even insurance men themselves, largely because they think only of a 20-year Endowment, the rate for which is high even at young ages. This prejudice is sometimes justified, as, for instance, it is surely unwise for a young man with a present or prospective family to put all his savings into a thousand or two of insurance simply because he wants the face of the policy in 20 years, when he could have twice as much protection in a longer Endowment.

Men who argue against Endowment insurance also fail to realize that life policies are "Endowments at 96" (or at 85 in a few companies), and that if it were not for the Endowment features of "paid-up", cash, loan or "extended" values, a life policy would not be attractive to them at all. The addition of a very few dollars a year, however, which in most cases, would not be saved otherwise, builds up such an increased reserve that the mortality risk of the company is constantly lessened and the maturity of the policy is brought down from 96 to 65 or 60—a time when the need for insurance is small, and for income large.

The company with which I have the honor to be identified has advocated these long endowments during its entire history, until, gradually,

DR. D. R. DUNGAN MEETS WITH ACCIDENT—GARDEN PARTY TONIGHT

DR. DUNGAN MEETS WITH ACCIDENT

The many friends of Dr. Dungan who left with Mrs. Dungan on November 12 for the Hawaiian Islands will regret to learn that he met with a very serious accident on shipboard and is now in a hospital at Honolulu. Dr. Dungan had the misfortune to fall and break his hip and as he is nearing eighty years of age, this is a very serious matter. Dr. Dungan is greatly beloved by the members of the Christian church and many others here and is widely known as a Bible student, teacher and lecturer.

He and Mrs. Dungan were planning to spend the winter in Honolulu and then continue their travels to Australia.

HAGOOD-FERGUSON BUY GLENDALE VULCANIZING PLANT

M. R. Ferguson and L. H. Hagood of the Hagood-Ferguson Motor Car Co., local agents for the Buick and Kesselkar of 1102 West Broadway, have purchased the Glendale Vulcanizing Co. of S. W. Bakewell, located in the same building. Mr. Ferguson will devote most of his energies to overseeing the vulcanizing and tire department, while Mr. Hagood will spend most of his time on the sale of motor cars. The new firm has greatly enlarged the stock of tires and will carry a full line of Goodyear, Goodrich, Michelin and Ajax tires and a full line of auto accessories at their present location, 1102 West Broadway.

DEATH OF LEO NYE

Mr. and Mrs. Nye of 1300 Doran street have received the sad news of the death of their little grandson, Leo Nye, which occurred at Nogales, Arizona. Leo was the son of Leslie M. and Maude Fetterman Nye and resided at 1300 Doran street, Glendale until four months ago when the family went to Nogales. Leo would have been seven years old the fourteenth of the present month had he lived. Particulars of the little fellow's death have not been received yet but his passing away was the result of an automobile accident. The news brings sadness to the friends of the family here and to Leo's little playmates at the West Glendale school.

GARDEN PARTY TONIGHT

One of the most attractive programs ever given by the Glendale Garden Society will be presented to the public tonight in the Third street school auditorium at 8 o'clock sharp. Fifteen boys and girls will be awarded the prizes offered in connection with the recent birdhouse contest. Professor Alfred Cookman of Long Beach High School, and leader of the nature study department of the Los Angeles Boy Scouts, will give a half-hour talk upon "Our Feathered Friends from the Mountains to the Sea," illustrated by specimens of mounted birds. A charming feature of the evening will be the bird solos to be rendered by the well-known whistler, Miss Felice Jung of Los Angeles. No more delightful program could be imagined and best of all, it is free to everybody. The Glendale Garden Society shares its good things with everyone; all its programs are for the general good of the community. Let the auditorium be crowded tonight with young and old.

NANNO WOODS.

the other good companies are coming to this way of thinking.

In a general statement the policy "which protects the whole period of the insured's expected active career and then becomes payable to him for its face value should he survive that period," is the one which covers the most needs in the largest number of cases. These long-endowments can be paid up in 20, 15 or 10 years, according to the ability and income of the insured and the extra money thus invested pays handsome returns on an absolutely secure investment. As no two individuals are situated exactly alike, the opportunity for the display of judgment and conscientious care on the part of the agent, in his ability to fit the policy, both in form and amount, to the needs of the insurer, is manifest. If he is true to his trust, his usefulness to society and the ongoing blessings which his work may produce, will be hard to estimate.

DARING DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

TWO MEN ROB WELLS-FARGO EXPRESS DRIVER ON CROWDED STREET CORNER IN LOS ANGELES.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—One of the most daring daylight robberies in the history of Los Angeles took place this morning at 10:45, when two men threw pepper in the eyes of a Wells-Fargo express wagon guard, Herman B. Rosenbaum, covered him with a gun and escaped with two bags of gold which he was carrying.

The robbery took place at Sixth and Los Angeles streets, in the rear of the Pacific Electric station. The street was crowded with traffic and there were several witnesses of the hold-up. One of these fleeing, notified the police, but in his haste gave the wrong address, thereby delaying the arrival of the detectives. A city wide search was immediately started but there are very meagre clues to work on.

SUCCESSFUL SHOW

LIST OF EXHIBITORS AND PRIZE WINNERS IN POULTRY SHOW

With the price of feed advancing by leaps and bounds for the past year, the poultry raiser has to take advantage of every opportunity to improve the laying quality of his breeds. Hence the importance of a poultry show, that the different breeders may exchange ideas, with the common end in view to improve their breed and increase the egg production.

It is quite common to hear visitors at the show exclaim, "Why, I have a hen as good as that one, or any rooster would beat that fellow." Probably so, but the thing for such people to do is to groom their birds for the next show and place them alongside these or other birds and be a good loser if you lose.

Cromwell Galpin of Eagle Rock and Hazel G. Lowe of Eagle Rock were divided honors in the Partridge Rock class, each having a very fine line of these large beautiful birds on exhibition.

Royce's Ravens and Royce's Patriots came in for their share of the big attraction. These are two breeds originated by Dr. Royce, who has spent several years in bringing them up to a "show bird" quality.

The Brown Leghorns in point of numbers were probably the smallest of the popular breed on exhibit, the pen of Brown Leghorns exhibited by J. Alexander of Tropico winning first prize.

In point of numbers the Rhode Island Reds take the lead. This breed is creating quite a sensation among the poultry breeders and ere long they are destined to be the leading variety. The honors in the Rhode Island class are almost equally divided among the exhibitors. Those winning firsts on the Reds were John Holloway, A. R. Tipton and Ellen Churchill.

Ducks, ducks, Muscovies and Pekins, several fine specimens from breeders in Tropico and Burbank.

The rabbit display is small at the show this year, but several fine bunnies are here from the rabbitry of S. F. Sanderson of Eagle Rock.

The biology classes from the Glendale Union High School, accompanied by their teachers, were visitors at the show this morning.

The special prizes are being gathered up today and will be distributed to the winners tonight at 10 o'clock at the show; every winner is urged to be present.

Mrs. William W. Stofft of 1689 Stocker street, by careful breeding has succeeded in bringing her fine strain of buff leghorns up to a high degree of perfection and carried away her share of the blue ribbons.

Probably the most unique exhibit is the display of Sicilian Buttercup owned by Nat Brown of 1431 Sycamore avenue. The hens which he has on exhibit have a record of 284 eggs. He is very loud in his praise of this breed and predicts that they will become very popular in the near future. It is needless to say he got the ribbons.

FACTS AND COMMENTS.

One of the principal questions of discussion at the California Press Association, which convened in San Francisco on Friday and Saturday, was the rising cost of news print paper. Many plans for meeting the increased cost of news paper were offered by the speakers. Establishment of a paper mill by the association, to produce paper for its members, was one of the methods advanced. Purchase in large wholesale markets was another method advanced, while some of the publishers favored meeting the increased cost of doing business as others do—by increasing the cost of their output with higher subscription and advertising rates.

Motor vehicle license fees for this year will total $2,180,000, it was announced at Sacramento Tuesday. More than 226,000 registrations have been listed. Five thousand machines have already been registered for 1917, bringing in $44,000 in fees. Poppies, to replace the bears on the license plates, will be mailed out within the next week.

But six mountain lions have been seen by the 45 forest rangers working under Supervisor R. H. Charlton in the Los Angeles forest reserve. This report tends to disprove the theory that the mountain lions are becoming so numerous that they are becoming a menace to deer.

Although Sacramento is designated as the capital of California a directory of the state offices, departments and institutions, recently completed, shows that 46 of the 101 are located in San Francisco and Oakland, while Sacramento has 44. Los Angeles has 9 state offices, departments and institutions. San Francisco has 36, Berkeley 8 and Oakland 2.

Several thousand corporations in California are claiming exemption from the corporation license tax which becomes due and payable the first of January. The corporation license tax exemption board will consider these claims. The tax ranges from $10 to $1000 a year, depending on the size of the corporation.

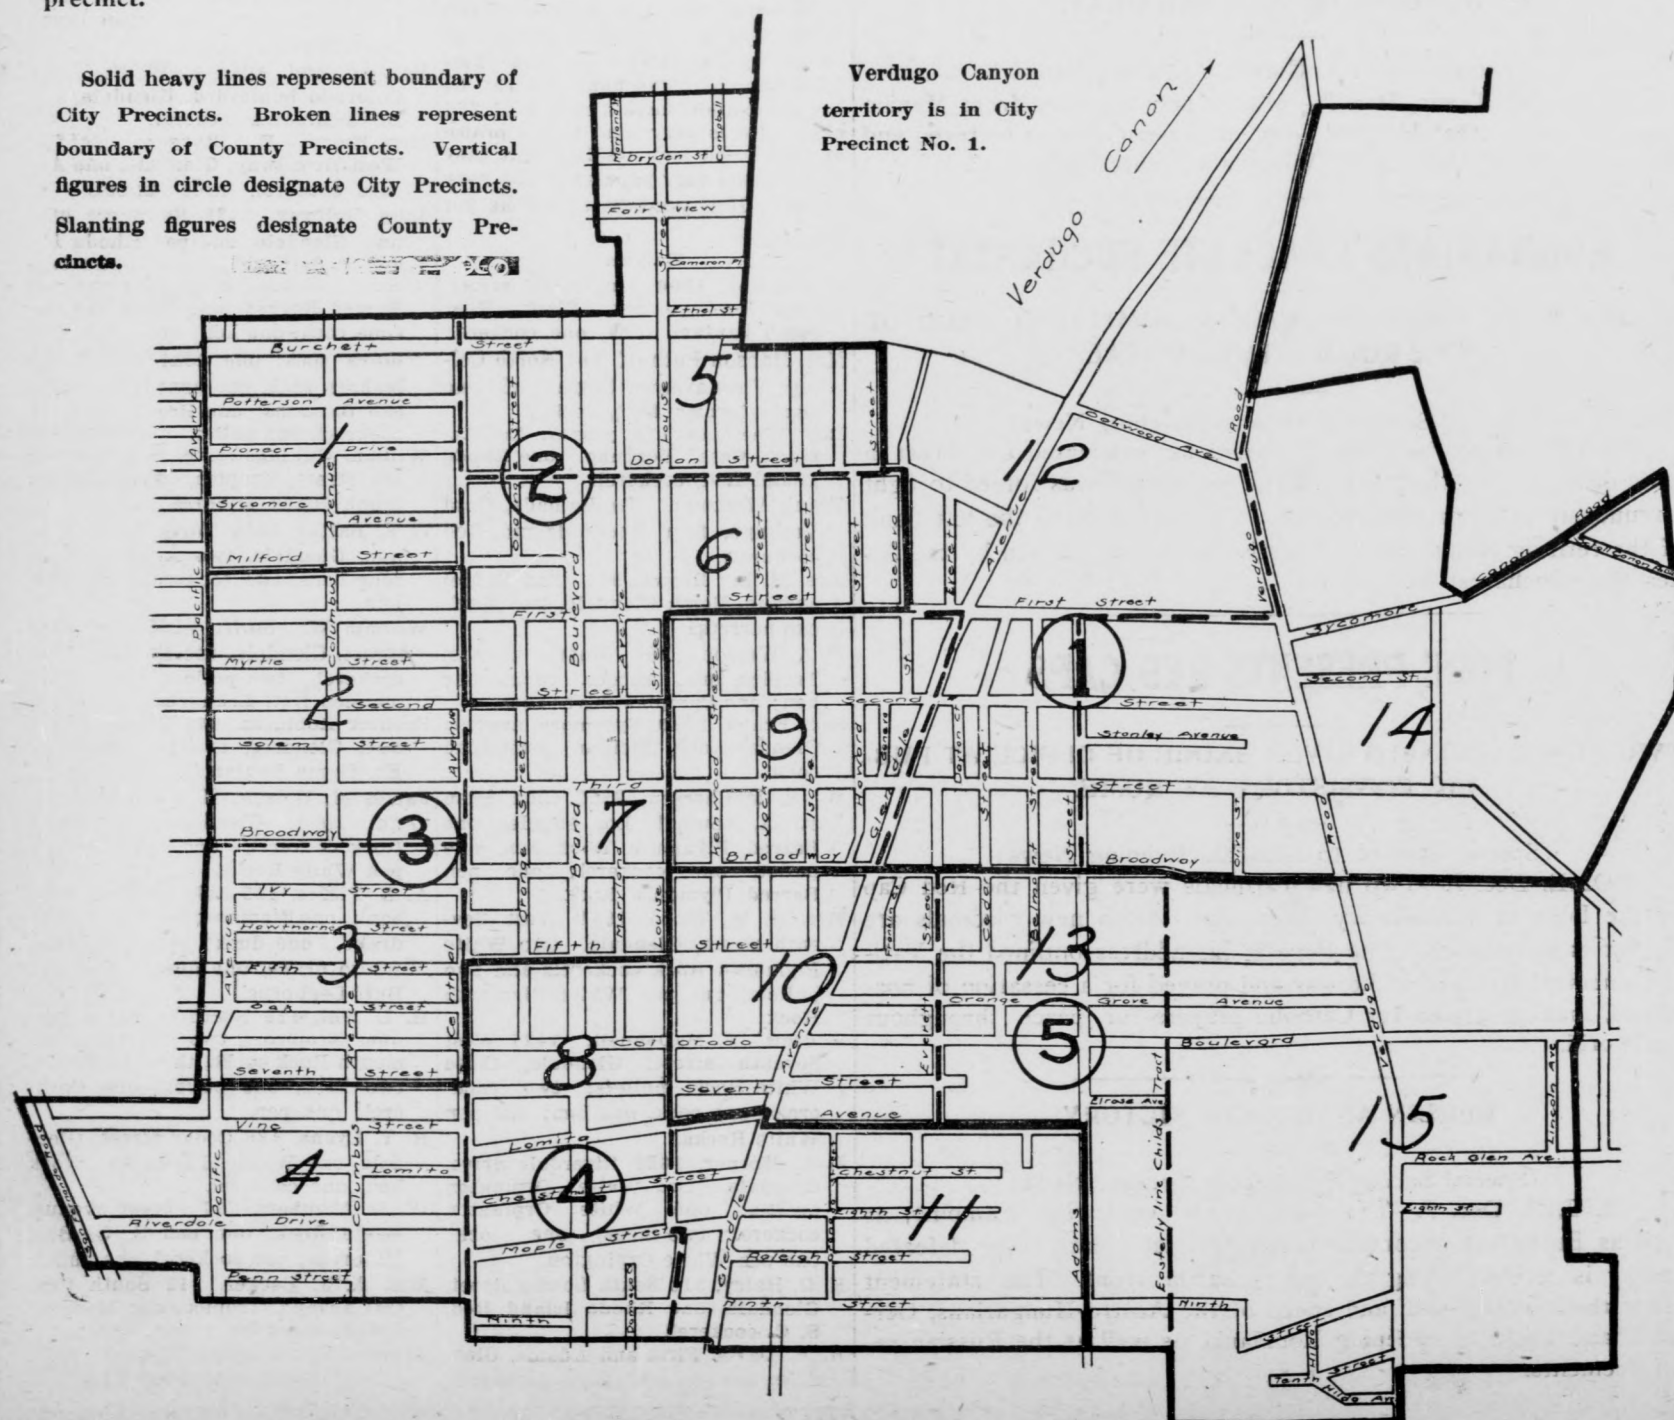

EGG HOLDING INVESTIGATED.

The department of justice at Washington announces that Federal District Attorney Clyne, at Chicago, presumably under orders from the department, had begun an investigation of the egg holdings of James E. Wetz, "egg king," which, he admits, amount to nearly 72,000,000 eggs.

Officials stated the investigation was to determine whether a prosecution could be begun under the anti-trust laws.

Every town and community in Tulare county and the citrus 3-L, embodying the privilege, into effect on Dec. 22. The pattern and in the competition for the Sweepstakes premium. Chambers of Commerce, boards of trade and other booster bodies, and citrus fruit growers' organizations take a prominent part in the exhibits.

On Tuesday, Dec. 19, will occur a bond election. There are five voting precincts provided for a city election. Locate your voting precinct.

FRUIT MEN WIN THEIR FIGHT.

The last step in the three-year fight made by H. W. Adams, traffic manager of the California Fruit Distributors, for the stop-in-transit privilege has been won. The Southern Pacific offices at Sacramento announce that the transcontinental lines will put tariff 3-L, embodying the privilege, into effect on Dec. 22. The Eastern trunk lines had already formally acceded to the request of Adams.

The stop-in-transit privilege will widen the markets for California fruit by making it possible for shippers to reach smaller markets.

Workmen engaged in cutting a new road through on Alice street leading from Cherry avenue boulevard toward the top of Signal Hill at Long Beach, discovered a stratum of sea shells, many of which are in perfect shape. The layer of sea shell was found about six feet above the level of Cherry avenue, and were deposited there when what is now Signal Hill was either permanently or temporarily inundated.

W. C. T. U.

WANTS BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

Editor News: Please put me on record as being in favor of securing better fire protection for Glendale. Some of these times we are going to have a big loss here if we do not increase our fire-fighting facilities. The loss of our high school group, or of a row of our business blocks would wake us up. Let's not wait for any such a disaster. Locking the stable after the departure of the family nag for parts unknown is poor business policy.

The proposed bond issue, to be voted upon in a few days, will provide us with what we need. It will give us a new machine of high efficiency. It will enable us to remodel the old truck so as to afford secondary protection for smaller fires. With the co-operation of our neighboring city of Tropic, both communities will then be able to handle a fire of almost any dimensions whether in Glendale or in Tropic.

Few people are adequately insured. A fire loss comes as a crushing blow to most people. The equity in their homes is thus frequently wiped out. All up-to-date communities minimize such chances by providing real fire protection. I shall therefore vote for the bonds.

J. T. LILLY.

LELAH TORREY FORD

Funeral services for Mrs. Leilah Torrey Ford, wife of Rev. Don S. Ford, pastor of the Tropic Methodist church will be held Friday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Tropic Methodist church.

Mrs. Ford passed away at her home Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock after an illness of a year and a half of tuberculosis. She had been confined to her bed for a year. Mrs. Ford was born in Michigan July 3, 1882, and was married to Rev. Ford in June 1913. She had resided in California since 1907. For three years Mrs. Ford was connected with District Epworth League work and was president of the Los Angeles district Epworth League in 1911 and 1912.

Mine owners will meet with the state tax commission in Sacramento on December 15 to arrange and recommend to the legislature for adoption a simple and uniform system for assessing mining property for taxes. There is a wide variance at present in the method of assessing mining property it is said, some counties putting a higher or lower assessment than others. Assessors from the counties in which mines are located will also be called into conference.

The Imperial county supervisors have passed an ordinance making it unlawful to allow any water to overflow on the highways.

PICTURE FOR LIBRARY

A friend of the Glendale library has presented the librarian with a sum of money to be used as the nucleus of a fund with which to purchase a picture to hang above the fireplace in the library. Mrs. Danford is desirous of purchasing something that will be in harmony with the surroundings in every way. No doubt there are many patrons of the library who will be glad to contribute their mites that this hope may be realized soon.

TUJUNGA

Miss Julia Culver and Miss Mary Fenn spent Thanksgiving with friends in Pasadena.

Miss Murphy of Pasadena spent the week-end in Tujunga, the guest of her friend, Miss Julia Culver of Monte Vista boulevard and El Centro avenue. Miss Murphy is an accomplished reader of Irish dialect and last spring as many here remember, gave a delightful entertainment at the town meeting in Bolton hall. Miss Murphy is also a teacher of German and French in Muir school in Pasadena.

A new family by the name of Walch from Chicago has rented the Avery cottage on Sunset boulevard.

Mrs. D. C. Dean of Los Robles avenue spent last Monday in Los Angeles shopping and visiting. She was the guest at luncheon of Mrs. Hardy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Miles were up from Glendale last Monday. They spent the day at their place on Sunset boulevard. Mr. Miles remained over for a few days while Mrs. Miles returned Monday evening to Glendale where they expect to spend the winter.

Miss Mary Fenn who has been spending several months in Tujunga, has gone to Los Angeles to be absent for a month, when it is expected and hoped that she will return to Tujunga.

Friday of last week the Friday Morning Round Table had a very pleasant session at the home of Mrs. Mary Woodruff, president of the society. A very earnest discussion took place concerning the "twentieth century child" with regard to his lack of respect for his elders and his disregard of the rights of others. It seemed to be the opinion that there is plenty of room for improvement along these lines. Also that the fault for these shortcomings lies greatly with those in authority. While the development of the child along his natural bent is very important and it is also important that his individuality should be respected and cultivated yet there is another very important trait that should receive especial attention else all these other factors may go for naught—and that is—respect for and obedience to those in authority—if all this can be brought about along with the inculcation of a due regard for the rights of others, there will cease to be cause for such remarks as that "the twentieth century child is an abomination" or that "his presence is unendurable." There is also the other side to be considered. A child learns more by example than precept. A due respect for a child's rights and an habitually considerate and polite attitude toward him will surely meet with a response in kind.

Captain and Mrs. William T. Helms of Los Angeles, were the guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones of Manzanita Drive.

Mrs. William Trout has been absent from her home for some time, visiting with her daughter and family in Barstow.

Mr. John Lewis is building a comfortable house on Michigan avenue. Mr. Lewis and family arrived recently from Utah to make their home in Tujunga.

The Weiman family celebrated Thanksgiving this year in their new home on the corner of Pine street and El Centro avenue. Two sons, Ernest and Wallace, and a daughter, Miss Lou, from Los Angeles, besides the son and daughter at home, Master Don and Miss Stella, and Mr. and Mrs. Wieman and Mr. Wieman's aged father, who comprised a happy family group, there were present Mrs. Wieman's brother, Mr. Ernest Morgan and Mr. William Trout and Mr. P. G. Rockey.

Mr. Charles N. Thayer who held a position in the store for almost two years past, associated with Mr. J. T. Ward, manager, has resigned. Mr. Joe Forster of Cedar street has been employed to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Fred M. Ashby of Greely avenue, our obliging postmaster, who was confined to his home last Sunday with a lame foot, was able to be about again on Monday.

A Bible class for women has been organized in the Sunday school with Mrs. W. H. Wieman as the leader.

Last Sunday evening the Federation joined with the Christian Endeavor society in the evening service instead of having the meeting separate as is the usual custom.

Town Meeting

Mr. Ashby, moderator of the Town Meeting, reported the cost for two electric lights to be placed at the front of the club house, for brackets, ports and wiring would be $8.00. Mr. Wieman as chairman of the finance committee of the Christmas celebration, was called upon for a statement. He responded by saying the committee does not expect to canvass the community for funds. Any one wishing to contribute are invited to leave their contribution with either Mr. Wieman or Dr. Kearney. The entertainment and treat will be for all the people of the community under the auspices of the Sunday school. There will be further announcements later. The matter of increasing space for the library was discussed, various plans are being considered. The boycott of the housekeepers of Los Angeles came in for a share of the evening's consideration. It was the consensus of opinion that the remedy begins at the wrong place and is misapplied. For instance, take the cost of eggs, the producer has had top-notch prices to pay for feed for a long time and the price is still soaring but now the price of eggs is coming down. The producer loses at both ends of the proposition. The eight-hour law as operated in the president's message, was also discussed.

Mr. C. M. Thayer has begun the erection of a street marker or corner stone at the corner of Los Angeles street and Monte Vista boulevard; others are talking of building these markers on which the names of the streets will be placed.

Mr. W. R. Mehard was a visitor to Tujunga for a short time last Monday.

We are glad to report that Mrs. Fairfield of Stephen Way, who has been lame for so long is much improved and is now able to walk to the center of the village.

The fall of recent rains registered .80 of an inch totaling for the season so far 5.16 inches.

The Christian Endeavor society held their business meeting last Monday evening at Bolton hall. The principal event was the election of officers which resulted in Mr. Donald Wieman being chosen president; Miss Gertrude Van Battum, vice president, and Miss Louise McClement, secretary-treasurer. A pleasant social time followed with refreshments.

Mrs. Haggerty of Long Beach and niece, Mrs. Morris of Seattle, are at Miss Gilbert's for a few days. Mrs. Haggerty is a sister of Mrs. A. H. Hubbard of Stephens Way.

Word comes from Mrs. A. H. Hubbard from Mitchell, South Dakota, that her daughter on account of whose illness Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard were called to their old home is recovering rapidly, but the Hubbards do not know when they may return to California. They report fine weather at present in Dakota, but when the blizzards set in they will probably hie them back to the land of sunshine.

A Sketch

Ivory R. Marston, son of James Marston and Mary Grant Marston, was born July 7th, 1833 at Coulter, Maine. His grandfather and General Grant's father were cousins. His father and grandfather were sea captains. His grandfather was shipwrecked and perished in an open boat at sea.

Mr. Marston's life has been an eventful one and one of adventure. He is descended from an old English family, whose coat of arms adorns the cover of their book of genealogy. Mr. Marston is the youngest of a family of twelve children, all of whom were born in the old family home to which their father brought their mother, a young bride. His father moved his family to New York when Mr. Marston was about one and a half years old. After this they migrated to the middle west. In his younger days Mr. Marston spent some time in the south where he taught school. He has been at the head of various enterprises such as railroad construction, mining operations and building contracts. During the Mexican war in the time of Maximilian he was in Mexico where he represented extensive mining interests, which were constantly interrupted by the authorities' efforts to impress his men into the service and because of which he had to finally abandon the mines. Mr. Marston was one of the early pioneers in California, coming to this state in 1853. At one time he owned a fruit ranch in Placer county. He was also a photographer. He was married to Mrs. Tillie P. Oliver in August, 1882. One son was born to this union. Mr. Marston was a man who commanded the respect of all those with whom he was associated and was a kindly disposed and pleasant neighbor and a loving husband and father. When yet a young lad he was converted and became a member of the Baptist church, but changing his views as to eternal punishment he afterward rather held to the tenets of the Universalists. In the spring of 1913 Mr. Marston moved with his wife and little granddaughter to Los Terrenitos afterward called Littlelands, now known as Tujunga. He was taken very ill in September of the present year and after several weeks of intense suffering, release came to him Saturday, November 18, 1916 at the home of his son in Los Angeles. He was ready and anxious to go to that abode where all is peace and joy abundant. Mr. Marston leaves his widow, who tenderly ministered to him during his illness, and one son, Mr. Mott M. Marston, and two little granddaughters Bernice and Lorraine. According to his wishes his body was cremated at Evergreen cemetery, Los Angeles.
